3 Questions With ... Philanthropist, Khelli M.J. Bryant

Public Relations Assistant at Sunshine Sachs & Graduate Student at Georgetown University

The Women's Giving Circle of Howard County, Maryland is proud to elevate the voices and giving of our donors and friends throughout Black Philanthropy Month

one

what moves you to give your time, talent and financial resources?

The possibility of being a blessing to someone is what encourages me to give my time, talent, and financial resources. I would not be where I am today if certain individuals did not take their time to pour into me. I believe anyone who has had the opportunity to be inspired by someone should seek to support and inspire others too.

two

when did you start giving to issues that are important to you?

I started giving back in 2015 when I joined Greene & Gold Academy at Wilde Lake High School. During my undergraduate studies, I joined Collegiate 100 Black Women. Currently, I am a mentor in OhanaHC mentoring organization.

what advice do you have for those interested in giving back?

You never know how your time, experiences, knowledge, life lessons, and accomplishments can support and help someone in need. There are various ways to give back and support your community. It's about finding out how you can best contribute and help. It's important to give back in way that feels best to you. It should be genuine and wholehearted.

The Women's Giving Circle is proud to continue our support for National Black Philanthropy Month 2021!

The WGC is building a community of philanthropists and creating a permanent legacy to address the needs of women and girls in Howard County, Maryland.

"We are excited to continue our support of National Black Philanthropy Month" said Hina Naseem and Judy Smith, co-Chairs of WGC's Diversity, Equity and Inclusion Committee. "Informing, involving, inspiring and investing in Black philanthropic leadership and giving are among the goals of this annual celebration and we are committed to advancing this important work in philanthropy, both in our community and across the country."
